STREET REPAIR
WORK IS PUSHEDCouncil Meets Tonight To Transfer Funds For Resurfacing

City council will hold a special meeting tonight in city hall to appropriate funds to take care of the proposed street resurfacing.

Bids were to have been opened today by the board of control for the resurfacing or patching of the five streets previously approved by council.

These include Newgarden ave., N. and S. Lincoln avenues, W. State st. and downtown E. Pershing st.

The job of covering these streets with a bituminous top is expected to cost at least $6,000.

Meanwhile, Service Director Charles Kennedy is pushing work on the filling of holes in the streets, caused by the severe winter weather.

WPA Workers Seek Jobs Closer Home

LISBON, May 13.—A delegation of WPA workers from the southern end of Columbiana county protested to the county commissioners this morning the fact that they are required to travel practically to the north end of the county to work on the Teggarden road project.

Charles Bevington of Wellsville, spokesman for the workers, said the men's transportation costs were too high.

The commissioners indicated that they would call in the township trustees from the southern part of the county to see if a project could be started near the men's homes.

County Engineer Charles O. Snyder and George Weinberg, WPA supervisor, were present at the hearing.

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, May 13.—Leaders of both major parties in Ohio—a hot spot on the nation's political weather map—today looked for a commanding majority in tomorrow's primary election.

Republican State Chairman Ed D. Schorr expressed "firm belief" that Republicans would outnumber Democrats in the voting. He said the "good" record of the party's state administration and opposition to the New Deal swing the sentiment.

Democratic leaders, however, believed that the spirited seven-man contest for the Democratic nomination for governor would attract a majority of voters into their camp.

Secretary of State George M. Nefner predicted that the primary battles, marked by charges of corrupt spending and cries of "bossism," would bring out a record number of 1,600,000 voters.

The 1938 primary set a mark of 1,569,818, divided as follows: Democrats, 901,125; Republicans, 661,809.

Bitter fighting over the Democratic gubernatorial nomination carried over into the last day of the campaign.

The Ohio supreme court was convened to hear a request that it prohibit election boards in the eight major counties from counting votes to be cast for former Gov. Martin L. Davey.

Charles H. Hubbell of Cleveland requested the writ of prohibition, charging that Davey had violated the corrupt practices act by spending more than the $5,000 to which a gubernatorial candidate is restricted.

Meanwhile, J. Freer Bittinger, Davey's Columbus manager, declared that "the frantic effort by a few former Democratic leaders to stop Martin L. Davey will receive a huge and stinging rebuke at the primary election tomorrow."

For and Against Davey
"Davey will be nominated beyond question," he said. Davey will carry more than 80 counties out of the 88.

Statements criticizing Davey, on the ground he could not be elected in November, or urging the nomination of former Gov. George White have been issued by W. A. Julian, treasurer of the United States; former Gov. James M. Cox, Dayton publisher; Democratic State Chairman Arthur L. Limbach, and former U. S. Sen. Robert J. Bulkley.

White, in a final campaign speech last night, said that if elected he would recommend legislation "to take the old age pension division out of the department of public welfare by appointing an independent commission so that the needs and needs of the aged shall never again be preyed upon for anyone's political benefit."

The voters will have to wade through a maze of candidates for state-wide offices, the legislature, congress and the supreme court on tomorrow's ballots.

On the Democratic ballot there are 11 candidates for lieutenant.

German Parachute Troops Attack Rotterdam, Large Dutch Port

When the German army launched its "blitzkrieg" aerial attack against the low countries, one of the first objectives of parachute troops was Rotterdam, chief Dutch seaport and key city of Holland.

Sharp fighting between the Germans and defending Dutch troops broke out immediately along the banks of the river Nieuwe Maas which flows through the city. This recent aerial view shows clearly the extensive docking facilities of Rotterdam.

Hospital Day

Visitors crowded both City hospital and Central Clinic yesterday as the institutions held open house in the afternoon in observance of National Hospital Day.

Two hundred and fifty children were registered at the children's party at the Nurses' home. They represented City hospital babies during the last five years.

Visitors at both hospitals were taken on tours of inspection by attendants. At City hospital the ladies auxiliary served tea, on the roof, while at the Central Clinic guests were served fruit punch and waters.

The hospitals were attractively decorated with flowers, donated by local florists.

Interesting department displays were seen by visitors at the Central Clinic. Displayed in the laboratory was a cardiometer, the device used in measuring the electrical current output with each heartbeat, and exhibits dealing with the human blood and blood content.

Soundproof ceilings, installed throughout the Clinic, were among improvements noted by visitors. Walls of rooms and corridors have been refinished and new flooring laid on the entire first floor. Similar work is in progress on the second floor.

A new refrigeration system has been installed in the clinic's dietary department, and a new stove is to be installed next week. Venetian blinds now decorate all windows. Private rooms have been refurnished with maple furniture and decorated in pastel shades.

Pupils of the Bettie Lee dance studio entertained with three programs for the benefit of City hospital visitors yesterday.

The group included, Jerry and Jean Eckhart, Carol Lee Aiken, Dolores Kornbau, Charles Dan, Jr., Joan Louise Loudon, Barbara and Ricki Roose.

Salem has been registered in the group of cities whose population is between 10,000 and 25,000. Other communities in this part of the state in the same division include East Liverpool, Niles, Struvers, Campbell, Wooster and New Philadelphia.

The contest will serve both as an evaluation of the progress of cities in which safety programs already are in operation and as a stimulant to those that are not yet engaged in this type of activity, it is explained.

The safest cities are to be recognized by the Ohio Safety council.

GREAT "BATTLE OF WEST" STARTSGerman Blitzkrieg In Holland And Belgium
Slowed Up

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, May 13.—French military spokesmen declared tonight that the German advance through southern Holland and Belgium appeared to be checked.

The great "battle of the west" has started, the spokesmen said, but it still is in a preliminary stage.

He explained this meant the advanced Allied motorized forces and Allied aviation were supporting the Belgian and southern Dutch armies and had slowed up the Nazi blitzkrieg sloop. They were giving battle pending the early arrival of the main Allied forces which were said to be nearing the line "ahead of schedule."

An official French compilation said the Germans lost 400 airplanes in the first three and one-half days of the drive against the lowland countries.

Fire Levy Before
Alliance Voters At Tuesday's Primary

ALLIANCE, May 13.—The city's much debated three quarters of a mill fire protection levy will face Alliance voters again Tuesday in the May primaries. Vetted in various forms by the electorate in three elections, the levy is slated to make a strong stand Tuesday.

The city's fire problem dates back to a special election on April 12, 1938, when voters cast 3,950 votes against a 5 mill levy which included aid for fire, police, hospital and for other purposes. Only 1,252 affirmative votes were recorded.

Shortly after that election, on May 1, 1938, the fire department which stood at 18 men and Chief J. E. Held was reduced and the Mt. Union station was closed. The roster now numbers six men and Chief Held.

The 5 mill tax measure was revamped and presented again in the November general election of 1938 in 3 mill form. The new tax was voted down by an impressive majority.

Another special election last April 12 introduced three levies. The electorate turned down police and hospital taxes but supported the fire levy 58 percent, just 7 percent short of the 65 percent required to place the measure in effect.

Sees Europe Under Reign Of Russians

Eventual solidification of continental Europe under the Russian flag was predicted by Robert G. Huggins, pastor of the Cleveland Church of God, in an address on "Russia, Israel and England" at the Church of God here last night.

Huggins, after showing from the Scripture the placement of the three nations at the coming of Christ, declared that "the battles of the war will be subject to influx and deflux, but the consummation and will be reached in:

"Russian triumph over Germany, either by war or annexation, and the solidification of continental Europe under the Polar Bear."

"The defeat of England, the destruction of her sea supremacy and loss of her African colonies."

"And, at the same time, the coming of Christ, and the establishment of an Israeli kingdom at Jerusalem when the kingdoms of the world shall become the Kingdom of Our Lord and His Christ."

Warns Of Many, Many

Hardships Ahead

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, May 13.—Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands came to London tonight as a refugee from her war-stricken country and was met at Liverpool station by King George, who welcomed her to England.

She came only a few hours after the arrival of Crown Prince Juliana, heir to the Dutch throne, Prince Consort Bernhard and their two small daughters.

LONDON, May 13.—Britain's new chief, Winston Churchill, gained a unanimous "win the war" mandate in parliament today after he warned that "without victory there is no survival," either for the British empire or what it represents.

He presented his streamlined war cabinet, with its two Laborite members, as a cabinet of unity, and dedicated his coalition government to a single aim: "Victory at all costs."

"Without victory there is no survival," he told the house of commons as parliament was called suddenly from vacation to hear his appeal for a vote of confidence for the new "cabinet of unity."

His policy, he said, is to wage war by land, sea and air, "with all our might and with all the strength God has given us" against "a monstrous tyranny never surpassed in the dark and lamentable catalogue of human crime."

Churchill warned of "many, many months of struggle and suffering" ahead even as earlier an authorized source told of possible heavy blows to the Allied cause as Adolf Hitler's legions smashed against bitter resistance in the invaded lowlands.

Germany apparently is staking "almost everything in an attempt to win the war quickly," a British source said, and speeding an attempt to drive a wedge between the Dutch and the Belgians while throwing numbers of parachute troops into behind-the-line action.

Britons should not be discouraged "when they hear of certain withdrawal," he said, at a time when Germany reported these successes on the lowland front:

1. A drive into Liege, strategic Belgian stronghold, with fall of the citadel of the forts, though outlying forts still are holding out.

2. A flanking drive west of Liege to Warehem, 13 miles away.

3. Conquest of Luxembourg. (French reported the line of battle in some places still was in Luxembourg though in some places in France.)

4. Conquest of northeastern Holland and opening of breaches in central Holland to a point only some 35 miles southeast of Amsterdam.

At home Britain felt the tightening pressure of the increased war effort launched under the leadership of the prime minister, who reorganized the government over the week end.

Churchill put two Laborites into his war cabinet, Clement R. Attlee as lord privy seal and Arthur Greenwood as minister without portfolio, and a third, Herbert Morrison, into the government as minister of supply.

The labor party approved the action of its men joining the government at its conference in Bournemouth and pledged "its support to the new government in its efforts to secure the swift victory and a just peace."

A roundup of some 3,000 enemy aliens was completed almost over night.

GERMANY'S OBJECTIVE

Striking again with the precision and decisiveness characteristic of German militarism, Adolf Hitler has spread totalitarian warfare to the last remaining frontier in the north—the low countries.

Strategy of the move is plain. Germany hopes to win the war this summer. It is shooting its wad on intense harassment of Great Britain. Possession of bases in the Netherlands and Belgium would expose southern England to the full terror of German air power.

Exercised to the limit, air power might bring Britain to its knees. Its disintegration would rob France, its ally, of fighting incentive. Britain is the German objective; France is incidental. In Nazi doctrine, France is not marked for destruction. The British empire is the key to the balance of power which Hitler hopes to alter.

To accomplish this, the empire is to be weakened wherever possible and the base of the empire is to be encircled. Seizure of Scandinavian bases accomplished that purpose as far as Scotland and northern England are concerned. Attack on the Netherlands and Belgium completes the plan. It is evident now that British refusal to appease critics of the government by a dramatic defense of Allied prestige in Norway must have been a disappointment to Germany; it left more fighting strength available for the more important task of delivering a counter-punch in the low countries.

Next climax in the drive to destroy Britain will be intensification of bombing raids against civilians in England and Scotland. What needs to be done to gain the objective will be done quickly. As in the World War, a stalemate would be fatal to Germany. Either it will win in a hurry or lose by slow degrees if its bid for supremacy is repelled.

COUNTER-MEASURES

The power of the Netherlands and Belgium to resist invasion, hitherto theoretical, now is put to the test. Germany has yet to meet effectual resistance; it has challenged the Allies now in the place where they are best able to take effectual counter-measures. French military plans have been developed to meet such a contingency.

There is, also, the Balkan front to be considered—the potential attack on Germany from the rear. In this consideration Russia and Italy are of the utmost importance. It is obvious that between them they can make or break any Allied campaign originating in the near east. The war inevitably will spread to the Balkans sooner or later, with Premier Mussolini holding the power of decision over the form it will take. Spain's decision becomes important in this connection, also. Gibraltar is vulnerable by land.

The apparent danger of Germany's position is the possibility that as the war develops its striking power will be weakened by too great distribution of its forces. Necessity for diverting troops to the Russian front in the World War and for defending its southern approach curbed its power on the western front. The shape of this eventually cannot be determined yet for purposes of the new war, except that a considerable force of picked German troops is needed to hold Norway.

Early successes in war always are important, but never conclusive against a strong enemy. It is perhaps desirable to bear in mind that nothing has happened which was not foreseen. Great Britain and France were in worse straits early in the World War than they are now, yet managed to rally their potential fighting strength to win the war.

AMERICA'S POSITION

Public opinion in the United States, reflected in the government's policy, still turns on expectancy of ultimate victory for the Allies. As and if that expectation is discounted there will be, beyond doubt, a revision and perhaps a revulsion of feeling.

The United States is committed to a policy of supplying the Allies with war materials. Demonstration of Germany's air power in Norway, followed by Winston Churchill's admission in the debate on the Chamberlain government's conduct of the war that British air power was outclassed increases America's importance as a source of supply.

It was just 25 years ago that American public opinion began to boil over the sinking of the Lusitania. In this war Germany has managed to hold the United States at arm's length without giving open offense, due largely to this government's abandonment of the principle of freedom of the seas. The United States is legally neutral, though its sentiment is almost wholly against Germany. This is not because it denies Germany the right to expand, but because it denies the right to spread the rule of authoritarianism.

"When will the United States get into the war?" is a dangerous and foolish question. There is, however, a question which Americans should be settling in their own minds and for their own satisfaction. Under what circumstances might the United States be justified in going to war?

VIGNETTE

A bent old man with a spike beard hobbles to the door to see what the noise is about. Doorn has been so quiet all these years it's hard to believe this new war has engulfed it, too.

Down the road comes a motorcade. In the middle car sits a man with a square black mustache. It looks like Adolf Hitler. It is Adolf Hitler. The old man's shoulders straighten.

He salutes. The motorcade roars past. The dust settles. The old man doesn't mind that he wasn't seen, but it does hurt to think they wouldn't be looking for him at a time like this.

If he weren't so tired he'd walk around back and saw some wood. There won't be any woodpile waiting in Doorn for that fellow with the mustache when this war's over.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, May 14

ADVERSE planetary influences dominating this day forecast sudden upheavals, commotion, stress and cross purposes generally, all precipitated without warning and with unpredictable denouement. Strange and critical situations seem to "pop up from nowhere, and in their immediate adjustment there is little to be expected in the way of help from elders, superiors, employers or others who might be in a position to assist. Perhaps much finesse, tact or subtle influence might be brought to bear on such resistance.

Those whose birthday it is would find it well to be on guard for a year of disruption, disintegration, sudden reversals or an avalanche of sudden and unpredictable visitations, which may be breath-taking as well as dramatic. Those from whom wise counsel or solid assistance might be expected may not cooperate unless approached in a delicate, diplomatic or subtle manner, in which their emotions are sympathetically touched.

A child born on this day may have certain cleverness, peculiar sagacity or intuitions, but generally it may be restless, erratic, irresponsible and not prone to the "straight and narrow path," unless given rigorous training in youth.

The thing we don't like about housework is that there's no future to it. Every morning you're right where you were the morning before—the dishes are staring you in the face. And the same thing is true of making beds.

It has not yet been determined whether it was a headline writer or a compositor who won the year's prize for understatement, but one of the two made a headline read: "Norway Resen's German Invasion."

Senators, Representatives Test Army Rifles

Your Nerves Last Longer
If You Cut Down The Speed

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
WHAT IS the cause of "traffic nerves"?

Investigations by a psychologist, Dr. George H. Mount, have given quite a definite answer to this question. Doctor Mount constructed an apparatus which would make a continuous record of the pulse rate, the blood pressure and the muscular tone of automobile drivers. It was almost impossible in reading these records to locate the bumps, the bad paving, the narrow bridges and the sharp curves that had been followed.

Doctor Mount found there were two types of strain—one, the steady strain caused by mental irritants, and, two, sudden shocks which put the driver's pulse way up. When a passing car cut in ahead of the test car, the driver's pulse jumped to 115. The steady strain was due to noises, loose windows, improper ventilation, poor sitting posture.

Two sets of drivers were tested. One group was instructed to go through a city and "not spare the horses"—try to get ahead of other cars, cut the traffic signals. The other group was told to obey all traffic laws, consider the other cars and not make any deliberate effort to cover ground speedily. The speedy group made a run on an average of 28 minutes while the law-abiding group averaged 32 minutes. This microscopic saving of four minutes was accomplished at the risk of nervous upset because the speeders had a pulse rate of 112 after the run, while the law-abiders had a pulse rate of 80.

The nervous irritation due to steady strain can be cut down at very small cost. A wrench and a roll of friction tape will do wonders towards making any car quieter. Ventilation in modern cars is taken care of by air conditioning. In older cars the right way to ventilate in a sedan, for instance, is to open the rear small quarter windows about three-eighths of an inch, open the right door window not less than half or more than an inch. This way will insure complete change of air in the car every few minutes and there will be no draft.

In heavy downtown traffic the driver's pulse reaches, on the average, 110. If he allows himself to try to get into competition with more rapid cars, he suffers nerve shock after nerve shock. The speeder who is determined to get ahead saves very little time and does so at the regular damage to his nerves and patience and endurance.

The Use of Iodine in Treating Goiter

How long should iodine be used in the treatment of goiter?

It takes very little iodine to prevent simple goiter. People who use iodized salt continuously are making a mistake. Iodine need be given only for a short time during the spring and fall in order to reduce the simple goiters which occur in goitrous localities.

Iodine is a two-edged sword in the treatment of goiter. It should be used very carefully, and we have a number of records of extremely severe reactions. These consist of fever, eruptions on the skin, a condition of runny nose and even jaundice. When any of these symptoms occur in a goiter victim who has been taking iodine, the iodine should be stopped.

This is not to say that iodine is not a useful remedy in goiter. It is. But it is no remedy for amateurs to experiment with. It should be given under the supervision of a physician who sees the patient at least once or twice a week and is able to regulate the dosage.

THE CAIRO GARTER MURDERS

CHAPTER XXIV
An invisible, iron-gloved hand seemed to squeeze North's heart dry when he learned that Kilgour was being "detained" at an unknown place, that he would be provided no further investigation of the murder of the unknown person permitted during a week. Otherwise, the unknown promised to return Major Kilgour finger by finger and piece by piece.

In need of solace, North pulled out his pipe and filled it. In groping for his lighter, he encountered Melhor's carriage long forgotten under stress of more imperative occasions. He picked up the small brass cylinder, squinted at it and drew a long, slow breath.

"Can you read the firm's name, Chief Inspector?"
Clive slipped an eyeglass before his right eye. "Why, yes, it's quite plain. Milano-Patria." He rummaged a second. "What of it?"

"Milano-Patria use the Grand Prix formula for their powder, Inspector."

Christopher Clive, Bimbashi, of Cairo's C. I. D., drew a slow breath and his shoulders rising caused faint gleams from his epaulet ornaments.

Grand Prix powder killed Folmesheer and Grand Prix is in the Melhorne fellow's weapon. This coincidence may establish an important lead.

"It may," North admitted. "Though we mustn't forget that the Milano-Patria people manufacture many millions of similar cartridges every year. Here's something else which interests me even more."

From his pocket North produced that cold bit of stone which, not so long ago, had been found in Nafika Black's limp hand.

"Well, well, it needed only this to make the case a complete nightmare," Clive plucked up the scarab and scanned it carefully.

"Interesting, very," he muttered slowly. "I'm a mere beginner in Egyptology, Captain, but even I can tell that this scarab was carved during the reign of Thutmose III. That oval thing at the top is the Pharaoh's cartouche." He rested the object on its back.

"Thutmose?" North queried.

"One of the greatest Pharaohs, a famous conqueror," began Clive. "I believe, I believe. Must get someone to translate those hieroglyphs—may have a bearing on our problem."

"One of the greatest Pharaohs, a famous conqueror," began Clive. "I believe, I believe. Must get someone to translate those hieroglyphs—may have a bearing on our problem."

"Shouldn't wonder," was North's dry assent.
"Let's see," Clive mused. "Schneider is the last word on the Hyksos Dynasty, Maurier and a chap called Dutton are considered best informed on the Twenty-first and Twenty-second dynasties while a Doctor Ladd is the final authority on the Eighteenth Dynasty."

"Ladd?" Doctor Ladd?
"Yes. Delightful old chap — has an amusing wife."

"Met her on shipboard," North interrupted. "Thought she was charming. Well, in any event, I suppose we'd better have Doctor Ladd look at these hieroglyphs as soon as possible."

After that silence reigned in the office. Clive pointedly occupied with Melhor's dossier and North still trying to fathom Melhor's peculiar conduct. He had scarcely begun his meditations when heavy feet sounded in the hallway and there strode in an English police inspector and a shrewd looking Egyptian constable whose jet eyes were sparkling with excitement.

"Well, Cameron, what about the car?"

"We found the place where it overturned, sir," the inspector reported. "There were bits of broken glass and deep scars in the earth, but the car itself was gone."

"Gone!" cried North and Clive together.

"Yes sir. It had been righted and pulled off. There was nothing to be learned by such light as we had. In the morning, perhaps."

"You found the body?" Clive interrupted.

"It's in the next room, sir."

Without a word the four men sought a large white-painted room down the hall. Dominating it was a long locker box. Clive lifted the lid exposing the dead woman in all her pathetic finery. Ugh! How hideous to behold, was her acid-cursed mouth and those eyes!

"Remove that garter," Clive curtly directed. "Bring it into the office. Call the corner and find Doctor Spofford. Have them see what they can make of this. Order Inspector Nelson to conduct a search — a careful search — of Miss Black's residence — check up on her servants. He'll report his findings as early as he can."

From a peg North had already removed one of the previously found garters and with Clive looking over his shoulder he made a swift comparison.

"Identical," he opined. "Weaver's knots again."

Clive passed a bewildered hand over his forehead. "I can't make head nor tail of all this. At first I thought she was a decoy for you."

"So did I," the American admitted frankly, "and the worst of it is, I'm still not so sure she wasn't."

"You mean she'd put that garter on her own leg, ready to transfer to your arm once you had been put out of the way?"

"What do you think?"

Clive, briefly communed within himself, then said thoughtfully, "It's not an improbable thesis since she wasn't relying on it to serve its intended purpose. I shouldn't wonder if you haven't found the explanation."

"Thanks. I hope you'll check up on the corpse at once since I'm most eager to learn the result of an analysis made of any powder found on Miss Black's body." He held up the garter. "And of the powder found on this. You can see there's a good bit caught in the shirring. Will you have this done?"

"Of course, and I'll get in touch with Doctor Ladd in the morning."

Chief Inspector Clive held out his hand in obvious dismissal, at the same time forcing a worried smile. "Thank you, Captain, for your help."

North returned to the Hotel du Nil. At the threshold of his room his breath stopped with a click, for barely visible, under the edge of the door was the end of an envelope. Another warning to quit Cairo and his self-appointed mission?

He unlocked the door and conducted a search of his rooms ere he even attempted to retrieve the note. The address had been written in a flowing and very handsome Spencerian script.

My dear Captain North:
After an unforeseen delay my dahabiah, the Hilar, has reached Cairo. Will you not do me the honor of joining my friends and acquaintances, some of them from the Fort Lucknow, for a brief cruise up the Nile? The dahabiah leaves tomorrow evening and will return the following morning.

I have already been flattered by acceptance from your friends, Miss Black, Colonel Melhorne, M. Levasseur, the Ladds and some attractive young Egyptian ladies. Please do your best to arrange an acceptance — the party would be most incomplete without you and the ladies would be desolated.

Will you be good enough to leave an answer in my letter box below as soon as you come in?

Please accept, my dear captain, the most distinguished compliments of your friend and admirer.

E. Phillipides.

"Well, well!" North murmured; then he rang Melhorne's room; but Stag was already sound asleep or had not yet returned.

After replacing the receiver, North hesitated not an instant but scribbled an acceptance and sent it below. Um! Either M. Phillipides was not aware of what had occurred among the moonlit shadows of the temple of Anubis or he did not care to admit it.

It was not until then that he discovered a still more puzzling fact. The 32 Melhorne had preempted lay on the center of his bed, complete with loaded magazine!

Next morning North received word that Sir George Ruthven, Egypt's high commissioner of police, would like to see him. Some twenty minutes later, the man from G-2 was ushered into Sir George's presence.

"Deuced good of you to come on such short notice," Sir George Ruthven observed while offering a bony hand mottled with large brown freckles. "Expected to see you this afternoon, but wanted to meet you sooner. Sit down please."

The police commissioner spoke jerkily.

"Just been speaking on the Jerusalem wire with Sir Joseph Henderson — Henderson's commissioner up there — God pity him! Seems they've got the wind up in Palestine for fair, don't you know?"

He said every hour the Arabs are getting more restless — the Grand Mufti won't lift a finger to quiet them. Apparently they've learned something or expect something which is getting them all worked up."

North, though he entertained a shrewd idea of what that "something" might be, said nothing.

"Worst of it is the Jews and Arabs are bombing each other. There was trouble at the Walling Wall this morning, a real riot. Bad, very bad!"

"Sir George momentarily checked his restless striding. "Clive tells me you'd obliged us by coming down with Kilgour and looking in on this funeral mess. Deuced fine to have you here, Captain!"

A smile flitted over the commissioner's deeply lined features. "Been busy?"

"Rather, sir," North admitted duly. "One could never call Cairo a dull city."

"So I know," Sir George jerked a nod and turned to look gloomily out over a wide vista of house-tops.

"This business of Major Kilgour is serious, very bad. We lose more face every hour he isn't found. But it's this Armstrong we're after. If he isn't brought to book — and at once!"

"Sir George hesitated, looking earnestly into his guest's bronzed features. "I venture there'll be a Jihad, a holy war, proclaimed by the Grand Mufti. Then the whole bally Near East will go phut! — break into flames. Yes, there'll be Jewish and Christian massacres from the Dardanelles to the Persian Gulf, from Afghanistan to Baghdad." He paused, slapping hands gently behind his back.

"Well, the fat will be in the fire, and no mistake, if the Arabs get more arms."

The state chairman's predictions in other contests were: Robert W. Bangham of Wilmington for state auditor, Harrison W. Jewell for supreme court, and George H. Bender and L. L. Marshall, incumbents, for congress-men-at-large.

GOOD LUBRICANT IS ECONOMICAL

Quality Is Cheap In The Long Run, Says Expert Mechanic

It's common knowledge that the cheapest one thing you have to buy for your automobile or truck is oil. It's also the most important. Poor oil, and there are many cheap oils on the market, are recognized by all motor mechanics as the most expensive item you can possibly purchase.

To operate your car, even for a few hours, with a poor oil is likely to invite a repair bill that will cost many times more than to use a proper lubricant.

The Beidler's Auto Service, in Damascus on Route 62, feature Amoco Motor Oils. This particular oil was chosen by Mr. Beidler after 18 years' experience as a motor mechanic.

He suggests you change now to the summer grade of Amoco.

DUNLAP LISTS NEW GMC TRUCK

Built To Handle Heaviest Hauling Requirements Of Any Operator

One of the most powerful Diesel trucks available on the market today—a new model powered with the General Motors six-cylinder, 165-horsepower, modern two-cycle Diesel engine—is GMC's answer to the need for a Diesel unit to handle the heaviest hauling requirements of any operator. This was announced today by Dunlap Motor Co., local dealer.

Introduction of this new model—just announced—now rounds out the complete line of GMC Diesel-powered units, making available to truckmen a full line of models equipped with either the three-cylinder, four-cylinder or six-cylinder General Motors Diesel engines, meeting virtually all the requirements in the medium, heavy duty and super heavy duty field.

Inherent advantages of the General Motors Diesel engine of two-cycle design—resulting in reduced engine weight, greater power output per cubic inch displacement, smoother operation and a superior fuel injection system—are but a few of the features exclusively offered in this new GMC model.

Ideal Gear Spacing
In addition to the design of the transmission, which provides ideal gear-spacing for heavy hauling work, the ADC-900 transmission has a low speed ratio of only 5.07 to 1, with a spacing of only 2 between first and second, and 1 1/2 between second and third, with 1 1/4 behind third and direct—an ideal spacing for tractor-trailer service. Further, the GMC transmission is of the Synchro-Mesh type—another exclusive advantage—which assures extreme ease of shifting at any truck speed and eliminates any need for double-clutching. The constant mesh helical gears with

Healthy Gent

No wonder this father is proud. A more healthy youngster than Virgil, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Edgerton of N. Madison ave., would be hard to find.

His diet has been that blended Guernsey and Jersey milk that mothers of Salem have found to be so digestible and satisfactory for their babies.

sliding gear collars facilitate shifting and are silent in operation. The GMC auxiliary transmission—available as an option—features constant mesh herringbone under-drive and overdrive gears. Gear changes are made easily through the use of sliding gear collars and quietness of operation is assured with the herringbone gears.

Plumber Offering Good Suggestions As Summer Nears

J. R. Stratton, plumber, at 270 S. Broadway, has the following questions and makes suggestions.

Doesn't the idea of a shower for summer sound good to you? Why not install a separate shower stall either in the bathroom or downstairs?

Make certain that you have all the hot water you need during the summer months by installing an efficient hot water heater.

Extend hot and cold water lines. Remember that rust-proof pipes can save you a lot of money and discomfort in the future.

Be sure to check piping traps, lay pipes to lawn, garden, outhouses, and replace old and unsightly toilet seats.

These suggestions, and timely ones, too, come from J. R. Stratton, master plumber, at 270 S. Broadway, as summer approaches. He'll be glad to help you.

Trouble Shooter of New Type Invented

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—A meter-faced electrical Dick Tracy that trouble-shoots failures and potential trouble by remote control in powerline networks of electric utilities has been developed by General Electric engineers. The device, resembling an old-fashioned dial-studded radio set, is an alternating-current electrical network analyzer. With it engineers may duplicate in miniature all or part of a utility's power feeder system and establish current faults likely to occur in the future as well as the present.

FORD FEATURES ARE STRESSED

Grate Lists Claims For Leadership In Low-Price Field

Ford leads the low priced field in fine car features according to E. L. Grate, local Ford Dealer. Not all Ford "features" are exclusive. You get some of them in high priced cars too. Twenty-five features are given below, found in America's 12 highest priced cars and likewise all of them are found in Ford. And what does the table show?

All have 8 cylinders.
Seven have Vee type motors.
Ten have "L" type heads.
Nine have non-adjustable valves.
All have dual downdraft carburetors.

All have full pressure lubrication.
Ten have precision type Connecting rod bearings.
All have high output shunt wound generators.

Nine have semi-centrifugal clutch.
All have Blocker type silent gearshift.
All have roller bearing transmission centershaft.

All have torque tube drive.
Four have three quarter full floating axle.
Ten have taper roller differential bearings.

Rear Wheel Hand Brakes
Eleven have rear wheel hand brakes.

All have "X" braced frame.
Nine have oilless spring shackles bearings.

Ten have 4 level type double acting HYD. Shocks.

Eight have battery under hood.
Four have 120 amp. hour battery or more.

One has battery condition indicator. (Linc. Zephyr.)
Seven have starter button on dash.

"All have clock as standard equipment."

All have dual windshield wipers as standard equipment.

All have passenger 100 per cent luxury cushion springs.

Ford, Mercury and Lincoln Zephyr all have the above equipment, which for the most part is stressed in advertising of Ford oppositions highest priced cars, but only eight of these features are found on their first competitor's car, and only eight on the second competitor's car. And here is another feature. Seventy-five per cent of the highest priced cars have valves that do not require periodic adjustment.

Use V-type Motors

Well over half the highest priced cars have V type engines. Their makers spare no expense to get the best design. There are no six cylinder cars in the 12 highest priced cars. That's because high priced car makers give owners the smoothness of 8 or more cylinders. Ford has a battery capacity of 120 amp. hours. Its first competitor 100 and second 90, and eight of the highest priced cars are under 120 amp. hr. capacity. On the Ford, radio, lights, starter, horns and other electrical equipment have sufficient current available to operate efficiently.

Superior Ford values are best appreciated when a point by point comparison is made. In every instance where passenger comfort, quality, convenience, safety and economy is concerned Ford leads the low priced field says the Grate Co.

Chrysler Offering Two-tone Exterior

Chrysler, whose two-tone interiors, introduced some time ago, are proving one of the most popular features of its 1940 line, is now offering two-tone exteriors.

Don Smith, manager of the sales department of the Smith Garage, local Chrysler Dealers, states: "Four attractive combinations of complementary colors will be available at slight extra cost and the factory predicts a brisk demand for them among motorists who go in for striking effects."

The combinations available are two shades of green, two shades of blue, two shades of gray, and maroon and beige. These have been worked out with the utmost care by Chrysler's color engineers and the effect is beautiful without being the least bit garish. The second color is applied to that portion of the body above the chrome moulding strip from the cowl rearward.

Where the two-tone combinations are used, wheel shields are also specified to set off the paint to best advantage and bring out the sleek, streamlined beauty of the car. The result is to give the vehicle a "dressy" appearance that is sure to find favor.

PARIS CLEANING IS DEPENDABLE

Six Chief Steps Reveal Why Paris Cleaners Really Clean

Dependability is the watchword for Paris cleaning in this district. And little wonder. There's something behind that dependability beside mere words.

The modern cleaner has standard methods and these are observed religiously. There are six essential steps in cleaning, and throughout every step the work is done by skilled men, always striving for perfection.

After your garment is taken into the Paris plant it is inspected for stains and damage. Then it is put into the cleaning machine and cleaned with a gentle, high quality solvent.

From the washer your garment goes to the extractor. This machine gently whirleds the garments around and ejects most of the cleaning fluid by centrifugal force.

Unless your garment is of a particular kind of wool, silk or synthetic fabric, it is put into a tumbler for further drying. Then it goes to the scientifically heated dry room which completes the drying process.

After a thorough inspection on coming from the drying room, the garment is turned over to the spotter, who removes stains not taken out in the cleaning process. He is a highly skilled and careful worker.

The garment is finished both by pressing machine and by hand. The work is done carefully so as to retain the original shape of the garment. The spotter restores articles to a "like-new" condition.

The final step before the garment is returned is the check-up. It's examined once more for shape, size, cleanliness and appearance. This final step makes sure the garment is perfectly cleaned and pressed before you get it.

SOPHISTICATES OPEN TONIGHT

Edyth Hess's Five-Girl Group Here For Two Weeks

The management at the Silver Cocktail room at the Metzger hotel is receiving congratulations on the booking of Edyth Hess and Her Sophisticates.

These girls, five of them, are a talented group who have played and entertained together for the past three to four years coming direct from the Amarillo hotel, at Amarillo, Tex.

Only because of their coming to Ohio to entertain all summer at one of the lake shore summer resorts was it possible for the Silver Cocktail room management to book them.

They start tonight and will entertain for the next two weeks, their repertoire including dance rhythm, vocal solos and harmony, doubles on violins, bass, piano, accordion and trumpet. This five-girl dance band, including drums will make the evening seem short and pleasant.

YANKS SHOW THEY'RE STILL IN PENNANT RACE

YANKEES BLANK RED SOX; BREAK LOSING STREAK

New York Club Shows Old Power In Stopping Boston, 4-0

By JUDSON BAILEY
The New York Yankees still are to be reckoned with in the American league pennant race.

The way they bounced off the bottom of the standings yesterday to shut out the Boston Red Sox 4-0, was a performance so forceful no skeptic could doubt that here were the real world's champions.

Red Ruffing whipped out that old last ball and spread six hits smartly, struck out eight and walked only two. The champs punched out their hits in decisive fashion.

Breaks Losing Streak
This not only ended the jinx left-handed pitchers had held over them, and an eight game losing streak, but it also stopped a six-game winning streak for Boston's league leaders.

In the National league the Cincinnati Reds proved once again that they, too, have the stuff of champions and are going to be hard to dislodge from first place. They beat the St. Louis Cardinals 7-1 and 13-4 in a doubleheader that showed clearly their superiority over the team that many experts expected to take the pennant away from them.

The victories increased the Reds' margin to a full game over Brooklyn, too, though the Dodgers defeated the Phillies 5-3 with Fred Fitzsimmons' knuckle-balling getting credit.

The New York Giants edged out the Boston Bees 3-2. Walter Brown snuffed out a flareup in the eighth for the Giants' fifth straight win.

Pirates Lost Again
The Chicago Cubs plastered another defeat on the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-5 when Bill Herman hit a three-run homer in the eighth. Duzy Dean started on the mound, gave up a homer in the first inning and was belted out in the second.

It was a rough day for the upper crust in the American league—from the Red Sox down. The Cleveland Indians were thumped by the St. Louis Browns, the Chicago White Sox by the Detroit Tigers 4-3 in spite of home runs by Pinky Higgins and Dick Bartell, and Johnny Babich achieved his fourth victory against one defeat as the Philadelphia Athletics whipped the Washington Senators 4-2.

BOB FELLER TO HURL TUESDAY

Auker Pitches St. Louis To 5 To 2 Victory Over Indians

CLEVELAND, May 13.—The Cleveland Indians had their first scheduled day off today—the calm before the storm of invasion by all the eastern teams.

Bob Feller is due to deal to the Philadelphia Athletics tomorrow in the first of their two games here. Then come Washington for three games, New York for three and Boston for two, all in succession.

The Tribe remained in second place a game and a half behind St. Louis after its 5 to 2 defeat Sunday by St. Louis.

Elden Auker maintained his old jinx over the Indians by being tough with men on the bases and personally rapping out three hits.

Mel Harder did his first long stretch of mound duty and proved himself fit, although charged with the loss. He went in after Willis Hudlin had been slugged for two runs in the second inning, and finished the game.

A walk, bunt and double earned a Cleveland run in the second and the Tribe tied the score in the seventh on two doubles by Ray Mack and Lou Boudreau.

Beau Bell misjudged Rip Radcliff's drive into the right field corner and it went for a triple. Radcliff then put the Browns ahead by scoring on a fly.

Wins Dog Bowl
POINT PLEASANT, W. Va., May 12.—Bad Andy captured three ribbons and a $180 award for his own.

Lawrence White of Akron, in winning the first Dog Bowl of America Field Trials for coon dogs yesterday, Red, owned by the Perry and Johnson kennels of Athens, won $20 as a second line dog. The field included 117 dogs entered from Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Kentucky.

32 Horses Named
COLUMBUS, May 13.—Thirty-two horses have been nominated for the second running of the Governor's handicap at Beulah park Saturday. The event, a mile and sixteenth for a purse of $2,500 added, ends Beulah park's initial running meet.

GREENVILLE, May 13.—Jimmy Wilburn, champion driver of the Central States Automobile Racing association, won the 10-mile feature event of yesterday's races here in 8:16.03 minutes, after bettering his own track record in the half-mile qualifying time trial with a mark of 22.07 seconds.

REDS CAPTURE DOUBLE HEADER

Cincy Defeats Cards In Two Games To Keep League Lead

CINCINNATI, May 13.—Their western invasion a complete success, the Reds returned to Cincinnati today for a "mop up" of the resisting Cardinals.

Bucky Walters was after his sixth victory for Cincinnati against Morton Cooper on the mound for Manager Ray Blanton in a game postponed several weeks ago.

The Reds swept a double header from the Cards in St. Louis yesterday, winning the first game 7 to 1 and the second 13 to 4. It was their fourth straight victory.

Taking the league lead in the first game of the Card series as Brooklyn lost to the Phils, the Rheinharts stretched the distance ahead of the Dodgers to a full game by grabbing the double bill.

Two big innings featured the twin triumphs. The Reds took the opener with a four-run attack in the fifth inning at the expense of Bill McGee and scored five times in the same round of the nightcap off Lon Werneke.

The Cards used six pitchers in an attempt to stop the victory march. McGee was followed by Jack Russell and Max Lanier in the first and second games. Bob Bowman and Lanier tried their hand in the second game after Werneke was sent to the showers.

Paul Derringer allowed only four hits but his bid for a shutout failed as the cards bunched three safeties, along with an infield out, for their lone marker against him.

St. Louis stiffened its attack in the second encounter, getting 16 hits off Jim Turner.

Columbia Stops Reilly Team, 5-4

Held to three hits, Reilly school's softball team dropped a 5-4 decision to Columbia school in a Mickey McGuire league game Saturday.

Ciotti was the winning pitcher. Mayhew was on the mound for the losers, allowing four hits.

High Athletes Vie This Week In Many Meets

Track, Baseball, Tennis And Golf Events Scheduled

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, May 13.—Ohio's thousands of high school athletes take their four-sport, tests this week end to determine which are eligible for the track, baseball, golf and tennis finals at Ohio State university's athletic plant May 24-25.

Qualifiers in all four sports are scheduled on a host of fronts this week, with 16 track, nine baseball, and seven golf and tennis eliminations on the program.

With the various independent relays out of the way, nothing has occurred to change the impression that Cleveland East Tech and Columbus North will battle it out late this month for the state Class A track and field title, just as they did a year ago.

In 1939 East Tech nosed out Columbus North by the slimmest margin in the meet's history, 35 1-6 to 35.

Show Power
The two favorites have showed power this year, East Tech winning Mansfield and Salem relays, while Columbus North walked off with the Ohio Wesleyan and Newark championships.

Winners of the first three places on the track-field events in the district meets will be eligible for competition in the state tourney, with all competition being divided into Class A and Class B.

Upper Arlington, winner of the Class B crown last year, doesn't boast its usual strength this season. In the Wesleyan relays Arlington scored only six points, after winning the Class B title four straight years.

The Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans' Home of Xenia won the minor league race at Wesleyan, while Osborn Bath triumphed at the Lanier relays, where the meet was divided into classes.

Trojans Lose To Wildcats, 12 To 11

Scoring consistently in the first six innings, the Wildcats defeated the Trojans, 12 to 11, in a seven-inning softball game Saturday.

Wildcats started off with four runs in the first frame and remained out in front throughout the contest, staving off the Trojans' seventh-inning rally to win, despite 10 errors.

Pitcher Pridon of the Wilds allowed seven hits, while Lutz, hurling for the Trojans, gave up eight safe blows.

Defending Champs Need Not Qualify

ST. LOUIS, May 13.—George H. Sisler, commissioner of semi-professional baseball, ruled today that defending state champions will not be required to play in district tournaments to qualify for the national championships at Wichita, Kas., Aug. 16 to 28.

Defending champions will qualify directly into one of the 48 state tournaments scheduled for July. Ohio's champions are the Struthers North Side Civics.

Belmont Will Be Test For Bimmie

NEW YORK, May 13.—Belmont and Bimelech seem to go together naturally, and by the time "turf headquarters" winds up its 24-day spring meeting which starts this afternoon, it should be seen whether Bimmie is the super horse he looked to be after winning the Preakness last Saturday or "the nag" he was after losing the Derby the week before.

There's no doubt that Col. E. R. Bradley's three-year-old is the most talked-of horse in training right now.

Beaten in the derby by the 35-1 outsider, Gallahadion, Bimelech came back to Pimlico Saturday to score a smashing victory in the golden jubilee Preakness before 50,000 fans.

But some tracksters want to see him in one more real test—the rich Belmont stakes June 8—before they decide finally. Bimelech then probably will face about the same field he conquered in the Preakness when Gallahadion was third.

LAKERS BEATEN IN FIRST GAME

Placentia Loses To Akron Team, 3-1, In 1940 Opener

Opening game "jitters" caught up with Lake Placentia's semi-pro baseball team yesterday, causing the Lakers to lose to the Simpson Clothes of Akron, 3 to 1, in their first start of the 1940 season.

The defeat marked the first time the Lakers have lost an opening game in seven years.

Four errors in the third inning proved costly to the Placentia nine as the Akron team took advantage of the Lakers' fielding mistakes to score their three runs.

Placentia came back with one run in the fourth, but was blanked throughout the remainder of the game.

Both teams used two pitchers in a tight mound duel which saw Willis Schopier and Carl Hannon of Placentia limit Akron to four hits and Bailey and Taylor of the Rubber City team hold the Lakers to six safe blows.

Hannon set the Akron team down without a hit in the last three innings after relieving Schopier in the seventh. Schopier, who started on the mound for the Lakers, gave up four hits.

The Lakers collected four hits off Taylor of Akron, who relieved Bailey in the third inning after the latter had allowed two hits.

In Huge Swindle?

Former president of the Associated Gas & Electric utilities firm, Howard C. Hopson and three of his associates have been indicted by a New York federal grand jury on charges of swindling $20,000,000 from 300,000 investors. It was the most sensational case of its kind, paralleling that of the late Chicago utilities king, Samuel Insull.

TOLEDO, May 13.—Cleveland and Toledo bowlers were all but one of the Ohio State bowling tournament's victory crowns today at conclusion of the 37th annual contest.

Nick Curcio of Columbus, Class A singles champion, was the only other winner. His tournament record of 765, scored earlier in the meet, placed him 44 pins ahead of his nearest competitor.

The Cleveland Steve's Service team rolled 3,060 over the week end to capture the Class B five-man title. The Cleveland Rosenblums, 3,197 held top position in the Class A five-man division.

The final session saw Robert Kalfas of Newburg Heights, a suburb of Cleveland, roll into the Class B all-events championship with 1,933. Pat Albris' 1,963 took the Class A all-events title to Cleveland.

This exclusive picture of Norway's King Haakon fleeing during a bombing raid is one of the most remarkable pictures ever taken by a cameraman covering a war. It is an exclusive shot taken by an International News Photo cameraman who risked his life to snap the shot, a very rare one since it involves as high a personage as a king. Crown Prince Olaf is at the left, following his father. The town is believed to be Elverum.

Theater
Attractions

Most of Jack Benny's radio troop are seen with him in the comedy, "Buck Benny Rides Again" at the State tonight and Tuesday.

The cast includes Phil Harris, Ellen Drew, Andy Devine, Virginia Dale, Lillian Cornell, Dennis Day, Carmichael and Rochester.

Benny's radio personality and type of comedy are transformed to the screen in a story which gives him the role of a city "slicker" who has to prove that his ranch and horsemanship of which he has been boasting once too often are as good as he says.

Rochester's comedy, and his imitation of Fred Astaire are the comedy highlights of the picture while Dennis Day's warbling makes the most of the four new songs introduced during the picture: "Say It Over and Over Again," "My! My!", "My Kind of Country" and "Drums in the Night."

Benny, as usual, puts his foot in it when he boasts to a beautiful western girl, that "he, too, is of the west," owns a large ranch and is famous for his horsemanship. His entertainers have been wanting a vacation, and force him to prove that his boast about his ranch is truth instead of fiction. By bribing the cowhands on Andy Devine's ranch, he does keep up the deception until he finds that real bandits have replaced those he hired to appear.

The comedy is Benny's best, for which Rochester can take a large part of the credit.

Installment Rail
Trips Announced

For the first time in transportation history, it will become possible this spring to arrange for de-fraying the expense of railroad journeys, including vacation trips, through convenient monthly deferred payments, it was announced today by the Pennsylvania railroad.

The new plan will go into effect May 20, and will be available throughout the territory of the system generally for roundtrip journeys to all points in the United States, Canada and Mexico, costing $50 or more.

The plan has been arranged in cooperation with a newly formed credit company entirely independent of any railroad. It extends to the purchaser of personal transportation by rail the same advantages in the form of installment payments that have proved so attractive in the purchase of automobiles, radio, household appliances, and other merchandise.

BOND ISSUES AND TAXES

"In his discussion of tax money in Salem and in the county, during a talk in this city Tuesday, I. J. (Dutch) Vorndran, expert in the county auditor's office, emphasized a point which too many taxpayers overlook or do not realize. He made it very plain to those who complain about the amount of taxes they must pay that their troubles start at home.

"Dutch" Vorndran, who is more familiar with the county's tax situation and general operation of the county auditor's office than any other man in Columbiana county.

"Every time a pet scheme which would require a bond issue is presented to the public, it would be well for every resident of Salem to ponder over the picture of taxes so clearly presented by Mr. Vorndran. Regardless of how much merit these proposals may have, they require money which can come only from the taxpayer's pocket."

How Germany Invaded Holland and Belgium

German aerial warriors like these have been dropped into Belgium and the Netherlands by the thousands. They present an easy target as they drift to earth from huge bombers and transport planes, but enough of them have survived to penetrate several of Holland's key coastal cities.
